GOVERNOR BRUCKER IN ESCANABA TODAY

MONEY FAILED TO PUT PARTY LEADER AHEAD

RASCOB'S MORTGAGE BROUGHT NO REWARD

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1931, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, June 8.—John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, may have a "mortgage" on the Democratic party as the Republicans now characterize it, but he can't very well foreclose.

The Democrats hereabouts, and incidentally a few Republicans familiar with the high finance of political parties, can't help but chuckle over the situation produced when "angels," as they are perhaps better known in campaigns, come forward to care for expenses. For the men who have financed Republicans as well as Democratic campaigns in the past get very little out of it but trouble and often considerable annoyance.

As for rewards, it doesn't require very much of a campaign contribution to get attention. In the old days a $25,000 gift to party expenses meant an ambassadorship. So Mr. Raskob, who has helped with more than a quarter million, rates better than an ambassadorship if his party ever succeeds. Yet the Democratic chairman isn't the kind who cares about holding public office and the Democrats are lucky that his interest in the party is as intense as it is, for these are the days when campaign deficits are not easily erased and money raising is fraught with abnormal difficulties.

Mr. Raskob's primary interest in the Democratic party is prohibition and that is to him a cause worthy of his time and money. There's nothing personal to be gained by such a cause. Secondly, Mr. Raskob was interested in his friend, former Governor Smith, and was challenged by the suggestion that a man of Mr. Smith's principles and religion couldn't be elected. Mr. Raskob, having been successful in business, entered politics in a broad sense and once having entered, his pride did not permit him to retreat.

Smith Real Leader

Today Governor Smith and Mr. Raskob are still the closest friends but it is Mr. Smith's influence and not that of the Democratic national chairman which counts in the councils of the party. If anybody has a mortgage, so to speak, or a claim on the Democratic party, it is former Governor Smith, who holds it by personal popularity very much as did William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Smith would hold it even if he had nobody alongside of him with Mr. Raskob's wealth and resources.

But the persons who really de-

Injuries Fatal to Joseph Greenfield

Grandstand In Gary Collapses; 40 Hurt

Gary, Ind., June 8 (AP)—The collapse of a grandstand injured more than 40 persons, by police estimate, at a pageant in Marquette Park tonight ending a celebration of Gary's 25th anniversary.

A section of the stands seating about 500 persons caved in at the height of the peageant, and precipitated what authorities described as a near-panic. There were 25,000 persons at the park.

Thirteen persons were taken to hospitals, their injuries serious, but probably not fatal. About 20 to 30 others were treated for minor bruises at emergency first-aid stations on the grounds.

LINDBERGH IS GIVEN PROCESS

Flier Sued; Server Gets Blow on Jaw by Admirer of Colonel

New York, June 8 (AP)—A process server who rushed up to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to hand him a document just as the famous flier and his wife were about to make a test flight today apparently was more disturbed by the incident than the aviator.

A Lindbergh admirer landed a knockdown blow on the process server's jaw after he had boasted of the ease with which he served the paper.

The colonel, however, was not enough interested in the paper to open it at once. A reporter, who asked him what it contained, was told:

"I'm sure I don't know. I'll have to look into it."

The process server who handed Colonel Lindbergh the papers at the airport was the second to accost him, it was learned tonight.

Given to Attorney

Earlier the flier was approached in his private office by a man who said he did not wish to serve papers on him but was acting under orders. His shyness was in contrast to the dramatic display made by the second server.

Colonel Lindbergh said he had turned both papers over to his attorney, Colonel Henry Breckinridge. He laughed about the matter and said the lawyer would make public any statement he deemed necessary.

Colonel Breckinridge said he had not studied the papers but would look into them tomorrow.

The Herald Tribune says the suit was brought by Walter Hyams & Co., a clipping bureau. Just before Lindbergh took off on his flight to Paris in 1927, says the newspaper, he was persuaded to subscribe $25 for the services of the bureau which was to forward clippings of newspaper stories of the flight to his mother.

Colonel Lindbergh, says the Herald Tribune, subsequently was asked frequently to continue taking the service and although he refused to do this, clippings of his activities continued to be sent his mother. Mrs. Lindbergh, on the advice of her son refused to accept them and the clippings piled up in the Detroit post office. The newspaper says the clipping bureau's charge increased from the $25 Lindbergh paid in advance to more than $5,000.

Vatican and Italy Seeking Solution To Their Trouble

Rome, June 8 (AP)—The vatican and the Italian government were still searching today for a basis of at least a temporary solution of the controversy that exists between them, and at the moment neither side despairs of finding one.

Through regular diplomatic channels and through unofficial negotiations the conversations are continuing, it was learned on the best authority today, and there was nothing to indicate any drastic steps were contemplated.

The vatican's two notes to the government are still unanswered by written reply, but it was assumed today the government's reply was probably delayed by discussions to determine its character.

BAND LEADER PASSES AWAY EARLY SUNDAY

FUNERAL SERVICES AT ESCANABA WEDNESDAY

Internal injuires received Saturday evening in a railway grade crossing accident near L'Anse proved fatal to Joseph Greenfield, 56, Escanaba musician and band leader. He died at 4:30 a. m. Sunday in the Ford hospital at L'Anse, where he was taken with four other occupants of the automobile for medical attention following the accident. The body was brought to Escanaba Sunday afternoon, and funeral services will be held here Wednesday.

Mr. Greenfield accompanied members of the Escanaba American Legion drum and bugle corps to Houghton for their appearance at the Upper Peninsula Legion convention, and was returning to this city about 5:30 p. m. Saturday with four others in the corps when their car was struck by a D., S. S. & A. passenger train three miles south of L'Anse at Bovin's siding.

Car Demolished

The driver of the car, Elroy W. Andrews, failed to see the train approaching from the left, due to the fact that the view was obscured by a pile of logs close to the tracks, and the train was visible for only about 50 feet. Mr. Greenfield, who was sitting on the left in the rear seat, was the first to notice the danger. He called a warning to the driver, but it was too late to avert the crash, and the automobile and occupants were hurled into a ditch after striking the rear truck of the engine back of the cab.

The top of the car was torn off

SIGNALS INSTALLED

J. T. Sharpensteen, division highway engineer, was notified yesterday by the state utilities commission that the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway had been ordered to install automatic wig-wag signal devices at Bovin's siding three miles south of L'Anse, where a passenger train collided with an automobile Saturday afternoon, resulting in the death of Joseph Greenfield, Escanaba bandmaster. High piles of logs, which have been decked up along the right of way by the Baraga Lumber company, obstruct the view of the tracks at this crossing.

Interest In Silver Conference Revived

Washington, June 8, (AP)—Interest in an international conference on silver revived today following a round of conferences on the subject revolving about J. P. Darling, director of the Midland Bank of London and an advocate of a silver parley.

Darling called upon President Hoover and had lunch with Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator King, Democrat, Utah, who was chairman of the sub-committee on silver at the recent meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Deputy Sheriffs Kill Two Mexican Students; Murder Charges Filed

Ardmore, Okbla., June 8 (AP)—County Attorney Marvin Shilling announced this evening he would file murder charges tomorrow against Bill Guess and Cecil Crosby, deputy sheriffs, for the fatal shooting today of two Mexican students in United States colleges—one a cousin of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico.

The county attorney announced the contemplated action after holding an inquiry which was adjourned until tomorrow. During the inquiry Guess said he would insist that the charges be filed and expressed confidence he would be exonerated.

Directs Investigation

Governor W. H. Murray late today also entered the case, directing Shilling to make a complete investigation of the slayings of Emilio Cortes Rubio, 20, and Manuel Gomez, 20. Emilio was a student at the Missouri School of Mines, Rollo, Mo., and Manuel attended St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kas.

Governor Murray, commenting on the slaying of the youths on a highway near here early today, said "no officer has the right to make an arrest without a warrant except for disturbance of the peace committed in his presence. Shooting under other circumstances is done at the peril of the officer."

The youths were accompanied by Salvador Cortez Rubio, 24, also a cousin of the Mexican president, the trio expecting to motor to Mexico, their school year having ended. Salvador, also a student at St. Benedict's, had left the automobile when the shooting occurred. He was unarmed.

Carried Revolvers

Guess, admitted slayer of the two students, said at the inquiry he fired only after the youths, whose automobile was parked on the road, drew revolvers.

Salvador said several guns were being carried in the automobile, partly for protection, and partly because they could be purchased cheaper in the United States and were being taken to Mexico to be used in hunting. Previous to the visit by the officers Salvador said he and his companions had become apprehensive because of an apparently pursuing automobile.

The two officers asserted the victims knew the identity of their visitors, and exhibited their weapons despite this knowledge.

Governor Murray addressed a letter to H. Waldez, Mexican counsel at Oklahoma City, expressing regrets at the tragedy.

"American officers too often construes fleeing as justifying the firing of his gun," the letter said. "It appears the boys had done no wrong and had violated no law other than that they were carrying concealed weapons on their persons, which is in violation of our state law." It promised a complete investigation.

A copy of the letter to the consul was sent to the secretary of state, Washington.

At suggestion of the office of the secretary of state, Washington, the chief executive said the state would prepare the bodies of the two youths for burial at state expense and would ship them to Mexico City.

CHINA IS FACING NEW CIVIL WAR

Revolutionary Units to Merge Against Nationalist Government

Hongkong, June 8 (AP)—The shadow of civil war lay upon China tonight as the revolutionary government of South China sought alliance of other rebellious elements throughout the country to overthrow the nationalist government at Nanking.

So serious has the revolt become that all Americans near Foochow have been warned to withdraw to escape rebels advancing down the Min river after defeating government armies in western Fukien province.

While air, land and sea forces took oaths at Canton to support the insurgent government and mined the approaches to Canton and Swatow, their leaders were reported hopeful of receiving aid from north China forces gathering at Dairen.

These asserted plotters were headed by Chang Tsung-Chang, former Shantung governor returning with several wives from exile in Japan.

Plan Conference

Yen Shi-Hsan, former governor of Shansi, and General Feng Yu-Hsiang, the two leaders of last year's abortive revolution against the Nanking government, sent representatives to confer with Chang Tsung-Chang. Also in Dairen, perhaps merely as observers, were men sent by Chang Hseuh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, and other northern provinces, who from Peking supposedly has been cooperating with the nationalist government.

Should active rebellion eventuate from the Dairen conferences, the government headed by General Chiang Kai-Shek might expect the advance of rebels from both south and north toward its strongholds in the Yangtse valley.

Chiang, professing little concern for the rebellion in the south, announced his intention of taking the field to crush Hunan and Kiangsi province bandits, and then retire from office to repudiate assertions he desired to become a dictator, or to found a new dynasty.

FOUR BANKS IN CHICAGO MERGE

the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Six Banks Close

While these negotiations were completed, a repercussion resounded in the voluntary closing of six Neighborhood banks with total deposits of approximately $29,000,000.

Three of these banks had affiliations with the Foreman group and their directors ordered the closing until their position as a result of the merger was determined. The others, all in neighboring localities, closed their doors to prevent runs.

Thousands of men and women thronged into the Foreman bank during the day. Most of them were curious onlookers.

Mr. Traylor told hundreds of them that "this is now the First National Bank," and that all deposits of the Foreman State National Bank and Foreman State Trust and Savings banks were guaranteed by the First National resources.

The First National became by the merger America's fifth largest bank with resources of approximately $900,000,000.

BAND LEADER PASSES AWAY EARLY SUNDAY

by the impact, and the occupants were thrown free of the wreckage. Mr. Andrews suffered a concussion of the brain at the base of the skull; William Ehnerd was cut on the forehead, and his shoulder wrenched; Charles Themel received injuries to the back; Charles Sherlock suffered severe bruises about the face and body, and Mr. Greenfield's chest was crushed, with broken ribs and scalp injuries. The car was a mass of wreckage.

Lifetime of Music

At the L'Anse hospital, Mr. Greenfield regained consciousness at short intervals, and talked with members of the drum and bugle corps who remained at his bedside. To the last, his interest was in his music and in the success of the drum corps of which he had been acting as director.

"Now I can't help you boys," he said, "but you keep right on with your practices. Keep right after it and make a good showing every time."

Born at Murton, England, June 24, 1875, Mr. Greenfield came of a family of musicians. His father was the leader of British army bands which saw service in India, South Africa, Gibraltar and other colonial possessions. Taking up music when about five years old under his father's tutelage, Mr Grenfield was playing in the regimental band at the age of 10. When he was 18, he tired of army life and came to America. He secured employment with the Ninth Regiment National Guard band at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and also played in theatres of that city. After three years in this country he returned to England in 1897, but remained only a few months. He was a member of the first band to greet Admiral Dewey on his triumphal return from Manila.

Played With Circuses

Shortly afterward, Mr. Greenfield started as a trouper, playing with a number of famous shows and circuses, including the Nickel Plate Harris Shows, Buffalo Bill, Miller Bros. 101 Ranch, Barnum & Bailey, Sells Floto, John Robinson's, and Ringlings. After quitting the road, he directed a band and taught music at Benton, Ill., and was married there 28 years ago. A victim of hay fever, he decided to try the north country, and took charge of a band at Thief River Falls, Minn. Musicians instructed by Mr. Greenfield now number among the leading members of the profession in the country.

He came to Escanaba in 1917 to direct the Escanaba Municipal band, and except for three years spent in Crystal Falls, and a visit to England with his wife to visit their parental homes and Mr. Greenfield's aged mother, was a permanent resident of Escanaba from that time.

Several local musical organizations owe their success to the directorial ability of Mr. Greenfield, who gave all of his spare time to help others in the field of music. He was the composer of several popular band numbers, and one of his marches, "Escanaba Hustler," won the praise of John Philip Sousa, world famous bandmaster, with whom the local director enjoyed a personal acquaintance. "Ahmed Temple" is another number composed by Mr. Greenfield which has been widely used throughout the country.

Aided Young Musicians

Some of his local musical connections included: Director of Escanaba Municipal band, Gladstone City band, Escanaba Legion drum and bugle corps, Masonic orchestra, Gas House Trio; organizer of the Escanaba Ladies' band, and Escanaba Boys' band, which later developed into the high school band, and member of the Shriners' band at Marquette.

He also gave private instruction in music, in many cases without charge to the pupils, and was the sponsor of many contests to encourage musical abilities of the young people. Mr. Greenfield assisted in orchestra work at All Saints school, Gladstone, and St. Anne's school, Escanaba. Numerous programs were staged under his direction for the entertainment of patients at hospitals and other institutions, and he was identified with scores of charitable entertainments.

The survivors include the widow, Mrs. Greenfield, of 1907 Fifth avenue south; two sons and two daughters, William, Blanche, John, and Barbara, all of Escanaba. His aged mother, five brothers and three sisters reside in England. Mrs. Greenfield, son William and daughter Blanche were called to L'Anse Saturday night, and were with the husband and father when death came.

Wayne Grand Jury Will Be Disbanded

Detroit, June 8 (AP)—The final disbanding of the 10-month-old Wayne county grand jury and the drawing of a new jury under the state act allowing for a permanent grand jury was discussed today by Attorney General Paul W. Voorheis, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Circuit Judge Lester S. Moll.

Mr. Voorheis said no decision was reached at the conference, the final action being left with Judge Moll and the present jury.

Filipino Houseboy Confesses Murder

New York, June 8 (AP)—A Filipino houseboy—a youth with a cauliflower ear—described in detail today how he stabbed Dr. George Edward Deely to death last Tuesday when the Brooklyn specialist surprised him robbing the Deely mansion in Brooklyn.

Captured in Philadelphia and brought here by a ruse, the physician's former servant confessed, re-enacted the death struggle and was indicted and held for trial, all within a few hours.

SOLONS REPLY TO COMMISSION

Controversy Over Judicial Nominations Breaks Anew

BY FANCIS M. STEPHENSON

Washington, June 8 (AP)—Senators spoke back today to the attack by the law enforcement commission upon political interference by the senate in the selection of federal district attorneys.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, ranking Democrat on the judiciary committee, said "if the senate is to be accused of injecting politics into the selection of federal appointees and particularly district attorneys, it may be retorted that politics are rarely absent in the nomination of them by the executive."

"Why assail the senate or senators in such a matter and exempt from like criticism the president who has sole power of appointment?" he asked.

Bingham Replies

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, defended the right and the practice of senators in recommending appointments to the judiciary and insisted that the senators were in a better position than others to know the best qualified men in their states and were held responsible for the appointments.

Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, turned the criticism back to the commission. He said: "That indictment could have come in better grace from a commission that hadn't thought itself to be a political smoke screen for this administration's failure to enforce the law."

The commisison's attack upon the senate brought into the open the conflict between a considerable group of the senate and the executive over the making of appointments.

President Hoover at the outset of the administration announced a policy of independence in judicial nominations. However, it was not long before pressure was brought to bear from the senate, principally from the Republican regulars, for more attention to their recommendations for judicial appointments.

cide matters in the Democratic party, the local leaders, are not beholden to Mr. Raskob. It's one of the paradoxes of politics that the leaders are courteous and friendly with the "Angels" but in party decisions they do as they please. Mr. Raskob with all his financial help didn't have the power to commit the Democratic national gathering here last winter to a program on prohibition which he outlined. Mr. Raskob may have a "mortgage" but it isn't convertible into anything tangible and no financial contributor ever got much out of any political party, which fact has been pretty well advertised among those who have money and is one of the reasons why money raising in politics isn't what it used to be for Republicans or Democrats.

County Prosecutor Pleads Not Guilty

Youngstown, O., June 8, (AP)—Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas of Mahoning county today pleaded not guilty to charges of bribery, embezzlement, blackmail, intimidation and other offenses when arraigned before Judge Harry W. Jewell of Delaware, sitting in Mahoning county common pleas court.

County Commissioner Albert Cooper, former commissioner Wade C. Christy and Attorney David Shermer pleaded not guilty to charges of bribery.

Shermer, Thomas Ryan, Joseph Hannon, Attorney K. H. Powell and former commissioner Griffith Jones entered motions to quash indictments of bribery against them. Thomas will go on trial Monday.

New Sewage Plant At Jackson Prison Granted Approval

Marquette, Mich., June 8, (AP)—The state prison commission today approved plans for the construction of a new sewage disposal system at the Michigan state prison at Jackson and decided to draft a resolution to the governor and the administrative board asking that a similar plant be installed at the branch prison here.

Work on the Jackson prison's plant will be started at once. The commission plans to ask the state for $20,000 from the general fund for a sewage disposal plant at the branch prison. Walter F. Gries, of Marquette, a member of the commission, suggested that two cell blocks of the branch prison be reconstructed as four-tier units. The present units are three tiers high.

Cherry Fruit Fly Makes Appearance

East Lansing, Mich., June 8 (AP)—Initial emergence this year of the cherry fruit fly, greatest enemy of western Michigan cherry growers, was reported today by Professor R. H. Pettit, Michigan State college entomologist.

The fruit fly emerged at Gobles, Van Buren county, June 5, according to advices reaching Professor Pettit. He recommended that growers in that vicinity begin their spraying program not later than next Saturday. The pest generally is seen at Gobles earlier than in other observation posts in the state.

Northern Baptists Uphold Prohibition

Kansas City, June 8 (AP)—The Northern Baptist convention reaffirmed its advocacy of prohibition and world peace today and uttered a protest against denial of citizenship to those who refuse to bear arms in defense of the nation during wartime.

In resolutions adopted at the closing sessions the convention pictured armament as a medium which "inevitably will create suspicion and fear among all the nations and diminish rather than increase the security of the United States."

The convention urged entrance of the United States into the World Court.

One Killed and Three Seriously Hurt in Traffic Accidents

Five Escanaba men were injured, one fatally and three others quite seriously, in a series of automobile accidents occurring over the week-end.

Joseph F. Greenfield, Escanaba bandmaster, was the victim of the fatal accident, a detailed story of which appears in another section of this newspaper.

Emmett Meehan, 629 South Fifteenth street, had a main cord of his right wrist severed and one rib broken when the automobile, in which he was riding, went into a ditch near L'Anse, on Friday. Meehan, accompanied by Ward Stafford and Carl J. Anderson, also of Escanaba, was going to the U. P. Legion convention at Houghton. The other two men were not injured. Meehan will not have the use of his injured hand for several weeks.

Clyde Burns Hurt

Clyde J. Burns, proprietor of the Delta hotel, was badly cut about the face, and James E. Mogan, 815 Third avenue south, received slight body bruises when Mogan's automobile, in which they were riding, was wrecked after hitting loose gravel at a curve on M-35, near Cedar River, Saturday evening. They were returning from Menominee, where they had participated in a golf tournament.

Grant and Fred Larson, their caddies, who were riding with them, were uninjured. Grant was driving the car.

Stodden in Accident

Thomas Stodden, 917 Sixth avenue south, upper peninsula representative for Nash Motors, Inc., Milwaukee distributors, was seriously injured in an automobile accident, a few miles north of Milwaukee, Saturday morning. He is confined to his home with three broken ribs, a fractured nose and painful bruises about the body.

Mr. Stodden was returning home from Milwaukee. An automobile ahead of him stopped without warning on the pavement, and the driver suddenly stepped out of the car and started to cross the highway, just as Mr. Stodden had decided to veer to the left. Seeing the man in his path, however, he drove into the other car to avoid hitting him. The impact threw Stodden against the windshield and steering wheel.

A woman, riding in the other car, suffered a hip fracture.

Shoplifters

Beware of Escanaba!

Losses incurred by Escanaba stores through the activity of professional and amateur shop lifters have become so alarming that a definite decision to abandon our heretofore pacific treatment of apprehended parties for harsher measures has been arrived at by the Retail Merchants of Escanaba.

Hereafter all shop lifters will be turned over to the Escanaba Police Department to be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

This policy has been instituted only after careful deliberation. Losses resulting from the evil are naturally reflected in higher prices and if Escanaba is to continue as the city where greater value is always available, shop lifting must be eliminated.

Most habitual resident shop lifters are known to Escanaba merchants and the Escanaba Police Department. All merchants and employees will keep a sharper lookout and parties apprehended will be vigorously prosecuted.

We sincerely hope that the general public will accord us their sincere cooperation in a program that only excessive abuse could have forced us to adopt.

EDITORIAL

JOSEPH GREENFIELD

THE TRAGIC death of Joseph Greenfield, director of the Escanaba Municipal band and of Cloverland post, American Legion Drum and Bugle corps, following an automobile accident near L'Anse, has removed one who had carved for himself a definite place in this community and whose loss will be sincerely mourned by a great number of people.

Probably no man in this community exerted as great an influence for good upon the youth of Escanaba than Mr. Greenfield. It was Mr. Greenfield who organized the first boys band in this city, which later formed the nucleus for the Escanaba high school band and his interest in the musical education of the boys and girls of this city remained uppermost in his interest.

Mr. Greenfield organized and directed the only permanently successful municipal band in the history of Escanaba. In past years Escanaba had other bands, but none achieved either the permanency or the success of the organization that he directed. He was a strict disciplinarian in the conduct of his band, but his eminent fairness to those working under his direction won for him an allegiance that was inspiring in its steadfastness.

As a musician and composer, Mr. Greenfield had few or no superiors in the entire peninsula. In addition to being master of a number of instruments he wrote compositions that are being played by some of the leading band organizations of the country.

Music was Mr. Greenfield's life and his ability to transmit his interest and his enthusiasm for good music to others, has left an imprint upon this community that will not soon be obliterated.

The high place won by Mr. Greenfield in the hearts of the people of Escanaba will not soon be filled.

GOVERNOR GUEST TODAY

GOV. WILBER M. BRUCKER, of Michigan, will today be the guest of the people of Escanaba. The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has arranged a dinner, in honor of the governor, to be served at 6:30 o'clock this evening, at the Delta hotel and because of the limited space available, attendance at this affair must be limited to those who have made advance reservations. Following the formal dinner, however, a public mass meeting is to be held at Ludington park, where the governor will deliver an address from the band stand, and it is at this function that the people of this entire community will have an opportunity to pay their respects to the state's chief executive.

Gov. Brucker has displayed his interest in Delta county by arranging to pay two visits to this county in a single week. In addition to his visit to Escanaba this afternoon and evening, the governor is to be the guest of the city of Gladstone, at the big Ford day celebration in that city, on Saturday.

Undoubtedly the people of Delta county will display their appreciation of this interest by giving to the state's executive a rousing, wholehearted reception, upon both occasions.

CONTRACTORS KEEP FAITH

THE AGREEMENT between contractors and the state highway department is that contractors shall pay a fair scale of wages on road jobs throughout the state. How well the agreement is being lived up to was learned by a committee of the Sault Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce when it recently investigated conditions pertaining to the work being done in Chippewa county by the firm of Fitzpatrick and Gatiss, of which an Ironwood man is a member.

Rumors came to the Chamber of Commerce that the contracting firm was employing a large percentage of outside labor, that the firm was not living up to its agreement with respect to paying a wage of 35 cents an hour, and that most of the firm's purchases were being made out of the county and out of the state. After the investigation the committee made a report that "the firm's agreement with the state of Michigan relative to the employment of local labor and scale of wages is being lived up to literally and splendidly." The committee found that fully eighty per cent of the labor employed is local labor, that a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour is being paid, that virtually all of the supplies are bought in Chippewa county, and that half of the trucks in use are owned by Chippewa county farmers.

It is refreshing to learn the firm operating in Chippewa county is not taking undue advantage of labor but rather is living up to its agreement with the state in every detail.—Ironwood Globe.

CARELESSNESS

THE AUTOMOBILE is generally supposed to be responsible for most of America's fatal accidents. However, a study just made by the National Safety Council shows that home accidents in 1930 caused nearly as many deaths as autos—30,000 to be exact, as compared with 33,000 traffic fatalities.

Most of these accidents occurred through carelessness. Falls were the leading cause; burns, scalds, explosions, asphyxiations, improper use of poisons, and cuts and scratches follow in the order named.

In some ways this is a more dismaying record than the auto traffic toll. The automobile is relatively new; deaths on the highway, however deplorable they may be, are not exactly surprising. But home accidents! If we can't take care of ourselves in our own homes we must be becoming a singularly careless and clumsy race.

For exciting news these days, there's no place like Rome.

Paul Whiteman is said to be the only dance band leader in "Who's Who." To be sure, he's a pretty big man.

Those Belgian balloonists, pointing to the success of their recent ascension, can say, "It's in the bag."

KING RECEIVES PERSHING

On June 9, 1917, King George of England received General Pershing and his entire staff at Buckingham Palace.

General Lord Brooke, commander of the Twelfth Canadian Brigade, presented the American commander to the king, who said to him:

"It has been the dream of my life to see the two great English-speaking nations more closely united. My dreams have been realized. It is with the utmost pleasure that I welcome you, at the head of the American contingent, to our shores."

Later King George chatted for a few moments with each member of Pershing's staff. He conversed with the general for a quarter of an hour, shaking hands enthusiastically as they parted. This ceremony at the palace was followed by a series of calls and entertainments.

THE MELODY GIRL

CHAPTER XXXV

AMONG the cards Beryl held in her game with Tommy there was one ace. It was a black ace and she hoped it would trump anything that Tommy could produce. It should, she thought, as she drove slowly toward the Larkin house. It had cost her enough to impress anyone with the slightest sense of honor. And she could not believe that Tommy's character had become completely undermined.

The look of worry on her face tonight (she did not often drive near the Larkin place at night) was marked. She had not seen Tommy for three weeks. The avalanche she feared had descended upon her only the day before and she was certain Tommy had not heard about it.

The night was chilly. It was early fall. Beryl had not brought a wrap and the sweater she was wearing was scarcely warm enough. She shivered slightly. "I'm always either too hot or too cold," she thought impatiently.

But impatience was such a slight burden compared with the black despair she had known. She honed never again to feel as she had when Dr. Auguston told her, "Your voice is gone, Miss Borden."

They had left her alone. She had asked them to. And what she had thought and what she had suffered had blocked out her youth—left her a woman.

She was a woman tonight as she went to find Tommy. She felt charitable toward him. She might have lost her voice anyway without tramping in the dew and being out when she should have been in bed. Tommy hadn't asked her to do that. She couldn't blame him. Besides Tommy had helped her. His need was the price of her misfortune. Her future should not be sacrificed for nothing.

Ever since the thought had come to her that now she could make an appeal which Tommy must listen to Beryl had been resigned to the hopelessness of her situation. She even found it a relief not to have to worry about the inadequacy of her sweater. It wouldn't matter now if she caught cold. Her voice was gone. Something in her throat had hardened. The voice wasn't coming back.

Her face was a little white but in her eyes there was a vision of Tommy—tall and slim and brown and gay. Tommy as he had been, not the unkempt loafer he had become. How she hated those bloodshot streaks in his eyes.

He had even talked roughly to her when she had dogged him until he was exasperated.

It had happened the night Pol had got into trouble. Pol had got out of it, but Tommy wouldn't have. He'd have been made the goat.

Beryl had parked her car in front of Pol's house when he and Tommy came out to get into a truck which stood in the driveway. Beryl went over to them and insisted, she would follow the truck if Tommy went with Pol.

Pol looked at Tommy. "All right," he said sharply, "we'll settle this later, Tom."

"I guess you know what that means," Tommy exclaimed to Beryl as Pol drove away. "I'm in bad. Pol's had about enough of you!"

"Then quit him," Beryl returned coolly, "and save yourself from being kicked out of his gang."

Tommy had sworn angrily and walked away.

Pol was arrested that night. It didn't come to anything but he blamed Tommy and thereafter Tommy had evaded Beryl with complete success except for one accidental meeting.

That was three weeks ago. Irene hadn't written and Beryl had no excuse to tempt Tommy into a talk. After tonight she would have no difficulty in seeing him or she would not want to see him. "For I'm not going to cwral to him if he isn't worth it," she told herself.

She wouldn't have planned a test for him but this one that had been thrust upon her would measure Tommy's character for all time for Beryl.

To put a soul upon the dissecting table is not an agreeable thing. Beryl, in her night of struggling with her new misfortune, had grown more tolerant, yet she knew that if Tommy failed her now she could never believe in him again.

She was not frightened as she might have been for believing in Tommy was all that was left to her. The thread of doubt that ran through her hope was a thin one but sufficient to make her realize what she was doing. If she lost, her life would be barren indeed.

After arriving at the Larkin house she sat awhile in her decrepit old car and weighed the potentialities of her venture. She could find nothing to induce her to turn back.

And no matter what she thought there was Tommy. She saw him as he stood in the middle of the Larkins' living room to turn on a light. The shades were up and the glaring light flooded the shabby room with a hard white brilliance, turning it into a stage for Beryl. She saw Tommy light a cigaret and pick up a newspaper. Then she put the palm of her hand down hard on the button that sounded the horn of her car and sent forth a raucous call. She repeated it in rapid succession several times, making it too peremptory for anyone to ignore — least of all Tommy who might reasonably expect that it was one of the crowd calling him.

Beryl held her breath as he came to answer the call. She had purposely parked her car in the shadow of a large maple tree. Tommy did not recognize it until he was within speaking distance. Then he swore under his breath and prepared to retreat, but Beryl was out of the car in a flash and clinging to his arm.

"Don't be a coward!" she challenged. "Besides there's no one home, is there?"

"Why can't you mind your own business?" Tommy retorted.

"That's just what I am doing," Beryl said. "Please come with me Tommy somewhere where we can talk. I want to tell you something—about myself. I'm in trouble too now."

Tommy drew back and tried to peer at her in the semi-darkness. People rarely thought of giving Beryl sympathy. She never seemed to need it. Beryl continued urging while he hesitated. Her voice was fraught with despair and it was genuine. She clutched at Tommy, suddenly afraid with a blind unreasoning fear, that he would not listen to her.

"Please, Tommy. You've always helped me when I needed you. Don't you see, I need you now? There's no one else I can talk to."

Tommy turned back toward the car. "Get in," he said gruffly. "I don't want you hanging around here. Pol won't stand for it."

"You drive," Beryl said, and slipped into the seat at the right. She was trembling so she could not have held the wheel steadily. Tommy became aware of her increasing agitation.

"What's the matter with you?" he asked bluntly.

Words to answer him were jumbled in Beryl's mind. She did not know which to use. How could she tell him?

Suddenly she put her face down in her hands and Tommy was astonished to hear the sobs that were torn from her lips. He drove the car to the side of the road and stopped.

Beryl, crying, was a complete stranger to him. "Gee," he said awkwardly like a little boy, "gee, Beryl, don't cry."

Beryl lifted her head. "I know," she said, "it's a nice way to act after dragging you out here to listen to me." She dabbed viciously at her eyes. "I've had a tough break Tommy. It's tough for you, too, because I've got to tell you the truth. My voice is gone. I may never sing again and . . . and they say it wouldn't have happened if I'd obeyed the doctor."

"Why didn't you?" Tommy asked logically enough.

"Because I couldn't," Beryl told him. "It was you, Tommy. You needed a friend. And you can't deny that there were times when you'd have got in a lot deeper with Pol if you hadn't had me on your trail."

"Yes," Tommy admitted. "I guess that's so. Do you mean that—" He paused and Beryl finished for him.

"I should have been in bed when I was chasing all over the country looking after you," she declared. "And now, Tommy, it's a showdown. I've paid a big price to help you. I'm not going to cry any more but I can't endure it unless you make it count for something. If you do I won't care. I'll even be glad."

Tommy stirred restlessly. "What can I do?" he asked vaguely.

"You can be yourself now and quit the Larkin gang. You know you can't stick with them forever, Tommy. I'll bet you're sick of it already. They know how to take care of themselves better than you ever will, but they'll slip some day. You're not a fool, Tommy. You know that. Come on back with me now—come to our house. We owe you a lot—our family—but you owe me more. And I'm licked, if I've got to admit that all I had to hold to on this old earth has gone down before the viciousness of Pol Larkin.

"Think of it, Tommy," she hurried on, "my whole future—everything that has given me a chance to lift myself out of the routine of working in a grocery store. I'll have to go back to that now, and I loved singing. I love the luxuries I never had before. It's horrible to think that I lost all that just because certain men are crooks. But I won't mind if it proves you're what I think you are. You've never been a welcher or a double-crosser, Tommy. You've always been regular. And now it's up to you to make good. I've bought your release from the Larkins with everything I had. Will you take it, or will you let me down?"

THE LORD'S EXPERIMENT

Seems like the Lord experimented
On lots of things that he invented,
Like man, for instance, there at first,
And man turned out about the worst.
You never hear of any movement
That says that roses need improvement,
But man himself is quite a mess,
Is still a failure more or less.

Here's what a mortal ought to be:
Strong as the wind, brave as the tree
True as the stars, as firm as mountains,
Clean as the pebbles, kind as fountains,
Gentle as grass and sweet as flow'rs,
As busy as the busy hours,
Yet man, a mortal or a nation,
Is still the failure of creation.

Worlds keep their orbits, never missed 'em,
Man hasn't any solar system,
And when I see him driving cars
I thank the Lord it isn't stars.
Spring hasn't missed a single season,
Or summer failed for any reason.
Time's worked a million years on man,
And we're about where time begon.

Bruce Is Speaker At Kiwanis Meet

Representative Helmer Bruce, Bark River, related his experiences during his first term in the state legislature in an interesting talk before the Kiwanis club at the Ludington hotel yesterday noon.

He cited reasons for the position he took with regard to various measures that were introduced in the house, particularly pointing out the defects in the Culver bill, the sales and tobacco tax proposals. He praised the efforts of Senator H. J. Rushton in safeguarding the interests of the people of the upper peninsula.

George Brown, president of the Kiwanis club, announced that the Escanabaclub will hold a joint meeting with the Ironwood and Iron Mountain clubs at the Iron Inn in Iron River next Saturday evening. The dinner will begin at 6:45, C. S. T.

Kiwanians also agreed to furnish automobile transportation for the members of the Escanaba high school band, who will give a concert at Cornell Wednesday evening.

Federal Forester Outlines Scope of Work to Escanaba Rotary Club

Leslie Dean, superintendent of the Hiawatha and Marquette national forests in the upper peninsula, yesterday told members of the Escanaba Rotary club a most interesting story of a tremendous project that has been undertaken by the federal government in this section of Michigan. The Hiawatha National forest, a portion of which lies in Delta county, now comprises 271,000 acres while the Marquette National forest is made up of 292,000 acres. Both forest reserves are being added to each year and at the present time 45,000 additional acres are under actual contract for purchase and an additional 65,000 acres is in the process of being appraised for purchase.

The scope of the work undertaken by the federal government in the peninsula, together with administration and development planned for the future, were fully explained by Mr. Dean yesterday and made up one of the most interesting stories ever given before the Escanaba Rotary club.

In his address, Mr. Dean told of the precautions being taken by the government foresters to guard against forest fires, called by him the most dangerous enemy to reforestation. He told of the government's plans for the construction of 234 miles of roadway, through the national forest tract, providing a highway that will touch every square mile of the reserve, making it possible to rush fire fighting equipment and men to any point at which a fire may break out.

The speaker told of the plans of the forestry department for replanting with trees all portions of the tracts that have been denuded by recurring fires and asserted it to be the belief of the department that within 30 years the project would be self-supporting. Twenty-five per cent of the annual revenues derived from the selective cutting of timber in the national forests is paid into the treasury of the county from which the timber was cut and predicted a future steady source of revenue from this feature of the work.

The speaker also told of plans for developing certain sections for the general use of the public, for recreation and called attention to the fact that only the regular state game and fish laws prevail in the government owned forests and streams and insisted that every effort is to be made to attract large numbers of tourists, as well as local residents to these forest reserves each year.

SEVERAL MEETS PLANNED HERE

Conventions to Bring Hundreds of Visitors to Escanaba

Several important conventions will be held in Escanaba during the summer and fall, attracting hundreds of visitors here.

The first convention scheduled is that of the Upper Peninsula Funeral Directors and Embalmers' association, which will be held sometime this month, the definite date to be announced shortly. A. R. Koskey, Negaunee, president of the association, announces that a two-day meeting will be held at the Delta hotel. Demonstrations of the latest equipment and devices for embalmers will be conducted. A cadaver will be procured for use in the demonstrations. State association officers will attend the convention.

About a thousand persons will come to Escanaba for the Daughters of Isabella state convention, which will be held the latter part of October.

The upper peninsula Red Cross conference will hold a full day meeting here either the last week in September or the first in October. Nationally known Red Cross officials will address the delegates from the various county chapters.

Efforts are being made to secure the regional convention of the Business and Professional Women's clubs here in October. Representatives of the Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, L'Anse, Baraga, Newberry, Munising, Calumet and Escanaba clubs will attend, and probably there will be delegates from Menominee, Iron Mountain and Iron River if plans to organize new clubs there are completed.

An arbor of crepe myrtle extending along the highway from Anniston to Talladega is planned by the Talladega chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Officers Seeking Owner of Holstein

Continuing their investigation of cattle thefts in the northern part of Delta county, the Delta county sheriff's department is trying to locate a farmer in that vicinity who lost a thoroughbred Holstein heifer within the last five years. The cow is now seven years old.

The party who lost a heifer of this description is asked to notify Sheriff Elmer Swanson. The cow has been located, and officers are attempting to check up on past ownership of the animal.

Superb with iced beverages is the new tidbit made of a slice of chipped beef rolled up with cream cheese, in the center of the roll, seasoned with horseradish and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Escanaba May Be Represented At Interlochen

Probability that Escanaba choral singers and Escanaba's high school band will have representation at the National High School Orchestra and Band Camp at Interlochen, Mich., this year, is seen in the unusual interest being shown in the events of the summer program.

A second meeting of those interested in chorus singing was held last evening at Escanaba high school for the purpose of discussing plans with all those interested in going to Interlochen for the massed concert.

It is probable that a group of members of the High School band will also go for the massed band concert which will be held under the direction of John Philip Sousa, "grand old man of music," it was announced by R. P. Bowers, head of the department of music, who is to be at Interlochen for the summer. The band is now working on the numbers which are to be used in the concert in order that members will be able to take part without any difficulty.

The massed chorus will sing Parts One and Two of Haydn's "Creation" and the band will have four of Sousa's marches in its program.

Fears Women Are Losing Tenderness

London (AP)—Women's participation in Parliamentary politics was bartered at the expense of some of her natural tenderness, the Marquess of Zetland told graduates of a girls' school.

"It seems to me," she said, "that women lose some of the tenderness of their sex. I may be old-fashioned but I look with some repugnance on women engaged in the hurly-burly of fierce controversy in the House of Commons."

More than a dozen members of Commons are women.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Spencer Tracy, who made an auspicious start in talking pictures not long ago in John Ford's comedy of prison life, "Up The River," demonstrates that his success in that picture was no accident with his fine work in "Quick Millions," which had its premiere showing last night at the Delft Theatre.

This picture, an up to the minute story of quick riches, and big business, is made to order for Tracy, who takes advantage of his every opportunity in his portrayal of "Bugs" Raymond.

Driving ambition and the conniving with certain people make "Bugs" the most powerful figure in the commercial, social and public affairs of his city. Everything runs smoothly until he falls in love with the sister of the man he forced to accept him as a partner. She refuses to accept him. But his old companions turn on him also for going hi-hat.

Sally Eilers is excellent as the girl who helped "Bugs" make his climb from the gutter. Warner Richmond is satisfactorily menacing as Tracy's right-hand man. Marguerite Churchill was never more charming than in her present role. Rowland Brown, author of "Doorway To Hell," directed.

Parachute Jumper Saved by Member Of Arctic Patrol

Lieut. Austin A. Straubel, U. S. A., one of the members of the Arctic Patrol squadron which stopped in Escanaba during its winter maneuvers a couple years ago, is credited with saving the life of an army parachute jumper at Chanute Field at Rantoul, Ill., Straubel's home is in Green Bay, Wis. He formerly was stationed at Selfridge Field.

The story of his exploit follows:

"The pages of Chanute Field's history, already crammed with a multitude of air thrillers had an addition today about Private Harold R. Osborne's failure to pass his parachute finals.

"He jumped all right. But he swung from the tail of a struggling airplane for almost an hour before he had a chance to use the second parachute which he had strapped to his back.

"Yesterday, graduation day, Osborne and a companion, also a novice, strapped on two parachutes, stepped into the cockpit of an army biplane, waved nervously to their superiors, and roared off the field.

Two thousand feet over the field, Osborne's companion was given the signal by the pilot, Lieut. Howard E. Engler. He stepped out, counted ten, pulled the rip cord, and floated gently to earth.

A minute or so later, Lieut. Engler nodded to Osborne. The private stuck a foot over the side was suddenly overcome by the well-known "titters," yanked his rip cord without further ado—and started places without even jumping.

"The big skirt, blown by the propellor blast, hooked over the tail assemblage, suspending the student 20 feet below the plane which suddenly went into a series of wierd capers as Engler struggled to wind up his stabilizer and get the ship on even keel.

"The field's siren screamed. Ambulances took out across the field, trailing the plane each time it turned. A crowd gathered.

"Lieut. A. A. Straubel rushed to the camp's kitchen, got a paring knife, tied to a sand bag, on the end of a rope, tossed it into a pursuit plane, and took off. For half an hour he jockeyed his smaller plane until Osborne could catch the paring knife as it swung by him on the sand bag as Straubel flew dangerously close to the biplane.

"Then Osborne calmly cut himself loose, started falling—this time counted tea, and pulled the rip cord of his auxiliary parachute.

"On a muddy field south of the air field his fellow students found him sitting in the mud, still patting the ground with his hands, and murmuring: "good old earth—good old earth." "

DEATH TAKES OLD RESIDENT

Marion W. Lancaster, Pioneer, Dies at Age of 78

Death claimed another Gladstone pioneer when Marion W. Lancaster, a resident of this city for the past 40 years, passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. H. W Smith, with whom he had made his home for the past eight years, Sunday noon at 12:30 p. m. He was in his 79th year and had been in failing health for the last six months. Death was due to complications attendant old age and was not unexpected.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon, from the H. W. Smith home, 1119 Michigan avenue, at 2 o'clock and from the Methodist Episcopal church at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. H. W. Colenso, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in Fernwood cemetery. Rites at the grave will be conducted by Gladstone Lodge No. 267, I. O. O. F., assisted by the Canton of Escanaba.

The body will be borne by John Erickson, M. I. Call, Frank Carter, Erik Peterson, Earl D. Frasher and Adolph Johnson, all members of the local Odd Fellow lodge.

Marion W. Lancaster was born January 30, 1853, in Walksville, N. Y. When a young man he came to Wisconsin and in 1877 at Hillsboro, Wis., he was married to Emma Jane Shelton of Hillsboro, to which union were born six children, three of whom survive. He came to Gladstone on May 4, 1891, and entered the employ of the Soo Line as carpenter, being employed by them actively until his retirement four years ago.

Mr. Lancaster was a devout and active member of the Methodist Episcopal church serving as a member of the board of trustees for many years and also as a member of the board of stewards. He was a member of Gladstone Lodge 267, I. O. O. F., and also of the Canton and Encampment of Escanaba.

He is survived by his widow, Emma, two daughters, Mrs. William, H. C. Moeller, Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. H. W. Smith of this city, and one son, Walter S. Lancaster of Newberry. Eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren also survive.

New Process of Iron Ore Reduction May be Used In Gladstone Ford Plant

What promises to mark a revolutionary development in the iron and steel industry is a process, perfected by Wm. H. Smith, Detroit metallurgist, for the reduction of iron from native ores without smelting. The process is of importance to the upper peninsula because of the fact that millions of tons of low grade ore abounds here.

It is of especial interest to Gladstone due to the purchase of a site in this city by the Ford Motor company for the establishment of an iron industrial plant which, it is believed, will be used for the utilization of low grade ores. It is believed probable that the process will be used when the local plant is constructed as the Ford company now holds a license to use the patented process in the United States.

This process, which is attracting attention in technical circles on both sides of the Atlantic, is controlled by the General Reduction corporation, a research company organized by Mr. Smith with the backing of an unidentified group of industrialists.

Uses New Principle

The Smith process employs a new principle of ore reduction. It consists in heating ore or any material containing iron oxide in retorts similar to coke ovens. The ovens can use any type of material from coke to coffee husks with remarkable efficiency. Because the product of the process is sponge iron, it cannot be compared directly with blast furnace iron, but it is the claim of the inventor that under the process iron can be made with 1,000 pounds of carbon where a blast furnace takes 2,000 pounds.

After reduction, the iron exists in particles in soft powder form, some of it light enough to float in air. In this form, the iron, mixed with the gangue, is pressed into briquettes. Reduction of the iron oxides is 100 per cent and the amount of carbon taken up can be regulated to 1.8 per cent, a factor of permanent importance in the manufacture of pig iron and steel. When the briquettes are melted in a foundry or open hearth furnace, the gangue floats off leaving the iron and carbon in combination.

Long a Problem

Experiments now being conducted with the facilities of the University of Detroit promise particular and far-reaching benefits to Michigan. The earliest ore deposits contained a high proportion of iron, from 65 to 68 per cent, and the problem of smelting was comparatively simple, involving the elimination of from 32 to 35 per cent of the impurities. As the supply receded, there was a gradual decline in the quality of the ores, especially in the case of hematites.

Explorations carried on since the opening of the Lake Superior iron ranges show, however, an enormous reserve of low grade ores running literally into billions of tons. Until recently these deposits were not seriously regarded. There was, nevertheless, one investor in iron properties who looked ahead to the time when low grade ore would be in demand. The late William H. Yawkey, heir to the estate of William C. Yawkey, became attracted to the possibilities of low grade ore operation and, at the time of his death, he was the owner of large holdings of low grade ore lands as well as high grade mine properties.

The problem of beneficiating low grade ores has been pursued intermittently since the early days of Michigan mining. Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, has conducted investigations in this field as have several other Michigan metallurgists. Some years ago, P. N. Mathur, East Indian metallurgist employed by the Ford Motor company in the design and construction of the River Rouge steel works, started a series of experiments in this direction and proceeded at some length with them during the period of his residence in Detroit, foreseeing the possibility of beneficiating if not of smelting lean ores.

The process of beneficiating ore involves the elimination of the large amount of silica which makes them commercially valueless so that the resultant product can stand freight to a blast furnace. In the stripper mines of Minnesota, lean ores are beneficiated by hydraulic methods. In the case of Michigan lean ores, however, the silica exists in rock form and the ore has to be smelted.

Mr. Mathur is now located in India, where he continues to carry on his investigations in the presence of low grade ores, an interminable coal supply and cheap labor. These conditions do not operate in the United States in favor of the reduction of low grade ores with coke. During his work in Detroit, Mr. Mathur sought to accomplish his purpose with waste and casual fuels and by-products of farm crops instead of with the age-old coal measures.

The greatest recent progress in the study of this problem has been made by Mr. Smith and the technical staff of the University of Detroit.

Use Many Fuels

During the past three years, ores from leading deposits of the world in great number and a hundred types of fuel from abroad have been transported to Detroit and used in the reduction operation. Experiments are conducted at the chemical laboratory of the University of Detroit and actual reduction operations in a plant at 1601 Frederick street, Detroit.

Perhaps, the most important feature of the new process is the wide variety of materials that can be used for reduction, making the development of iron a practical thing in all countries lacking coal resources. In many parts of the world there are ore deposits that are worthless because no coal is available with which to use them on a commercial basis. For instance, Venezuela has the second largest ore deposits in the world, but the country has no coal and the ore is untouched.

Among the carbon-bearing materials which have been used as reducing agents at the Detroit plant are charcoal and hardwood waste, coke, coke breeze, hard coal, brown coal, peat, oil shale, tar and gilsonite, a natural pitch. In addition, such special fuels have been tried as pressed sugar cane, coffee husks, Babassu nuts, bagassee, hog weed In the case of Venezuela, therefore, the Smith process appears to open the door to the use of oil products in ore reduction as this country is one of the world's leading oil fields.

Many Inspect Process

The process has attracted an army of technical visitors to the University of Detroit. Among those who have visited the university to learn about the process are Prince Henry, of Saxony; Dr. de Sousa, son of the new president of Brazil; technical delegations from the Krupp works at Essen and from the Arbed industries of Luxembourg. In addition, metallurgists from many parts of the United States have visited the university laboratory and the reduction plant.

Mr. Smith, inventor of the process, was closely identified with the automobile industry. He served as a major executive of the Ford Motor company during the period of the company's greatest growth.

Prior to his coming to Detroit, the metallurgist was general manager of the John R. Kleim plant, Buffalo, N. Y., which was purchased by Ford in 1911. In this connection, it is worth recording that W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor Car company, was an assistant to Mr. Smith at the Keim plant, where Knudsen started in as a boilermaker.

Process is Unique

The plant of the General Reduction corporation contains much of interest to an engineer. The ovens, five in number, are ten feet wide, 16½ feet high and 20 feet long. Standard steel sections and fire brick shapes form the construction and special materials provide good interchange of heat between the cooling and heating flues and the charge. Carborundum is the oven lining used in the reduction zone.

Ore is crushed in varying sizes, usually not over one quarter inch. The charge enters the upper end of the oven where it is pre-heated by waste gases which leave the stack at 400 degrees, Fahrenheit. Horizontal flues similar to those in a coke oven are used to heat and cool the charge. Moving downward, the charge enters the reduction zone where the temperature ranges from 1,600 to 2,000 degrees, F., and after reduction the charge is cooled by air for combustion coming in through the heating flues. Iron leaves the furnace at less than 250 degrees, F., often cool enough to touch. After reduction, the iron is further crushed, magnetically concentrated and usually briquetted.

The five ovens have a daily capacity of 50 tons of iron. Cost of the plant is in the neighborhood of $3,000 per ton of iron reduced. Loss of heat by radiation is small during reduction. In this plant, loss is said to be seven per cent and, according to the inventor, with a battery of 50 ovens this loss could be brought to three and one-half per cent. A big factor in the success of the process is the ability of the oven to supply an unlimited quantity of heat from 1,500 to 2,000 degrees, F., in the reduction zone without affecting the rest of the oven.

Hardwood Waste Used

The process produces valuable gases. At the Detroit plant a gas holder receives excess gases before they are burned in the heating flue. Non-coking and brown coals are very satisfactory with the process and it is not outside the range of possibility that through the process vast lignite deposits of the northwest might be used in the reduction of ores from the Mesaba and Canadian ranges of this region.

Much work has been done with hardwood waste. A pipe conveys this material from a neighboring plant of the Fisher Body corporation. This is used as received, the ligneous gases produced being consumed at once. Experiments show, however, that the by-products that can be recovered from wood waste would be of great value. These include acetic acid for making lacquers and alcohol. At present, 1,480 pounds of wood waste are being used for each ton of 50 per cent iron ore.

An interesting side of the reduction process is the fact that it can successfully handle low-grade ores that are worthless for commercial purposes. Much success has been accomplished with pyrites or "blue billy." Roasted pyrites, with 55 per cent iron, showed 80 per cent after reduction and 90 per cent after concentration. Deposits of iron ore in the United States having less than 50 per cent pure iron are considered of little value, yet the Detroit plant, working on a 45 per cent magnetite yielded reduced material with 85 per cent iron, which after separation and preparation contained 98 per cent iron.

According to Mr. Smith, the reason why coke is required in a blast furnace is that it is the only suitable fuel strong enough to hold up the tremendous weight of ore, stone and other materials in the stack.

As a matter of fact, it is a highly expensive process," Mr. Smith said in explaining his process. "It is with the idea of improving on the blast furnace and at the same time producing a better grade of iron that I commenced my experiments. In the reduction of iron, the active principle is a carbon-oxegen gas which is the production of all ordinary combustion. In the low temperature process, therefore, any mineral or vegetable that is combustible can be used as a reducing agent."

A variety of uses have been found for the sponge iron produced under this process. At the University laboratory, Mr. Smith has on display an iron ball containing 20 per cent rubber in alloy. Another object on display is made of iron and Bakelite. According to Mr. Smith Bakelite alloyed with iron is magnetic and conducts electricity.

Process Patented

The importance of the process is admitted by all experts who have visited the plant. An inspection of the plant was made some time ago by Dr. George B. Waterhouse, professor of metallurgy, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and writing at the time he declared that high-grade magnetite ores can be reduced with the Smith process as part of full raw material for making high-grade iron and steel.

"Makers of tool steels and high-grade alloy steels could install this relatively low-cost equipment, using pure magnetite concentrates or other good ores and supply all or part of their raw material . . .," the expert stated. "In the large tonnage iron and steel industry, this process may be looked upon as of direct assistance to the blast furnace. It provides a desired high-grade product as a supplement to the present pig iron with less initial cost and much less heat consumption and loss than the modern blast furnace. One striking fact is that it is economical in small units and it may very properly be installed at plants or in countries and localities where a blast furnace plant could not be considered. It is also seen as of great assistance to the present steel industry as an immediate method of producing good and high-grade raw material. It would remove the necessity of smelting fine ores in the blast furnace, where notably better results are obtained by using coarse materials."

The process is protected by patents in 30 countries. The company has two patents in the United States. The Ford Motor company already holds a license under these patents and other licenses will, according to Mr. Smith, be issued later in the United States and foreign countries.

One of the very few screen actresses who can laugh and talk simultaneously, is Claudette Colbert. The compliment is paid her by sound technicians who recorded on the new noisless equipment at Paramount's New York studio, "Honor Among Lovers," in which she is featured with Fredric March and which opens tonight at the Rialto theatre.

It is an accomplishment bordering on a gift, claims Tuthill, to chuckle, as Claudette does, at the same time you speak your lines.

"Miss Colbert laughs the lines whereas another actress would put the laugh or chuckle before or after the words," Tuthill said. "When Miss Colbert is playing a gay scene she actually laughs the words.

About seventy five veterans, representing companies A, D, E, F, G, I, and M, were present.

Congressman W. Frank James of Hancock was elected president of the 34th Michigan Volunteers, succeeding W. H. Hielman of Calumet, and Sault Ste. Marie was awarded the 1932 convention which will be held on July 2, 3 and 4. These dates were made permanent for holding the reunion in future years. Other officers elected are:

First Vice President—Judge C. H. Chapman, Sault Ste. Marie.

Second Vice President—O. K. Scheriff, Escanaba.

Secretary—Neil Hume, Marquette.

Treasurer—Fred Elliott, Flint.

Awarded $500 Judgment

Iron Mountain.—Judgment of $500 was awarded Emil Scantland, of Iron Mountain, in federal court at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., late yesterday afternoon, after a lengthy jury deliberation in Santland's $20,000 damage claim against the Midwest Commercial Credit company, of Milwaukee, charging false arrest as the result of an alleged deal negotiated during Scantland's association with the Quality Motors company, now defunct.

The jury took the issue at about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, returning after 4 o'clock p. m. L. E. and G. H. Garvin, Marquette attorneys, represented Scantland.

It was Scantland's claim, on the witness stand, that the company caused his arrest and attempted to obtain from him a collection through the courts. He claimed he was falsely arrested in Iron Mountain and taken to Marinett, Wis., after which the case was dismissed.

Celebration Planned

Iron Mountain.—A. R. Bracco, druggist, has been named chairman of the central committee in charge of solicitations and other arrangements for Iron Mountain's fourth of July celebration, according to an announcement today by Charles P. Stine, secretary of the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Chamber of Commerce.

Other committee members are Lewis G. Eisele, Arthur Chapman and J. P. Palmer.

Starting Monday morning, at 9 o'clock, committees totalling from 50 to 60 men, and divided into teams of two or three men each, will begin the canvas in the business district here and in Breitung. No goal has been set, the canvassers being instructed merely to advise the merchants that the extent of the celebration program will depend wholly upon the money subscribed.

THEATRES

Fox' "Doctors' Wives" at the Gero theatre today and Wednesday, is hailed as a tense dramatic story of the conflict that arises in a young doctor's wife's heart when she foolishly believes that "the patient is the common enemy of every doctor's wife."

Both Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett are said to rise to new heights of emotionalism in this stirring production which comes here. Frank Borzage, two-time Photoplay magazine medal winning director, directed. Others in the cast are Cecilia Loftus and Victor Varconi.

HA! SLEUTHS CHASE ONE ANOTHER
By NEA Service

Evansville, Ind.—City detectives were very much on their toes to capture bootleggers. Consequently, when a man rushed in and informed them that three men, driving a tan, mud-splashed auto, looked suspicious, and one of them had a revolver, they hopped right to the job of catching the supposed rum runners.

They hunted high and low for the car, and had no success. Disgustedly, they returned to the police station. There, in front of the building, was the car. The sleuths hurried into the building to find the occupants of the car. They turned out to be Federal prohibition agents!

SENIORS HEAR REV. J. GROSA

Baccalaureate Service at H. S. Sunday Is Well Attended

Comparing the entrance of the class of 1931 into life's activities with the launching of a ship upon an ocean, using the class motto, Rev. Joseph Grosa, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered a splendid address Sunday evening before a large audience at the baccalaureate service held in the high school auditorium.

Musical numbers at the service were provided by the high school orchestra under the direction of Wayne Martin and by a mixed chorus. Rev. F. Elmgren delivered the invocation; the scripture reading was presented by Rev. C. E. Morrison; prayer was offered by Rev. Percy L. Lomas; and the benediction was said by Rev. William Erickson.

Neither knowledge, might, nor success in themselves are worthy or fit purposes, ideals, or aims, Rev. Grosa stated. Rather, an ideal taken from Jehovah 9: 23-24, is far more worthy of serious consideration.

A Worthy Ideal

"Thus saieth the Lord: 'Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches: But let him who glorieth in this, that he understand and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord and exercise loving, kindness, judgement, and righteousness in the earth, for in these things I delight, saith the Lord.' "

"Now the knowledge of God is not suggested as involving ignorance of other things," explained Rev. Grosa, "nor the necessity of poverty, nor the renunciation of a commanding position among men; but rather as the perfection of wisdom. The Knowledge of God is the sense of all other things. It is the climax of power and might.

"This only is worthy of being your ideal, for you are spiritual beings clothed with material bodies. You are His kinsmen and the only engagement worthy of you is to be so in communion with Him that you may clearly understand what he wants done in the world and with what spirit."

H. S. ATHLETICS FAIL TO PAY

Other Extra-Curricular Activities Make Up Deficit

That extra curricular activities practically paid for themselves was indicated in the annual financial report of the Manistique high school student association released yesterday. Statistics on track receipts and disbursements are not complete because no figures have been received as yet in regard to the Iron Mountain trip which was made last Saturday.

Athletics, football and basketball, show a loss of $101.78 in comparison to a gain of $149.39 in last year's report. Football, despite an otherwise successful season, indicated a loss of $136.73 as compared with a gain of $5.10 in the season previous. Basketball receipts exceeded disbursements by $34.95, although the 1929-30 season showed a net gain of $143.29. The faculty-student basketball game netted a profit of $42.25.

The greatest financial success of the year was the high school operetta, "Miss Cherryblossom," which put $141.76 into the school coffers. Debating, despite the fact it was concerned with the most interesting subject worked on in years, indicated a loss of $134.25, a trifle better than $7 less than the loss showed the year before. Oratory and declamation contests show expenses amounting to $13.57.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 8, (AP)—Stocks rallied rather impressively today after an early decline that had been led by the rails. The recovery was not spectacular compared with last week's feverish ascent, but it was substantial and the average of 90 issues rose 4.2 points net, closing above the level reached last Thursday.

Not for some time had the market been able to show so large a gain on so small a turnover, for today's volume was only 1,700,000 shares. Rails issues, which had wilted under Pennsylvania's report of a first quarter net loss, recovered quickly after the morning's accumulation of offerings had been absorbed. Oils, favored by a more cheerful turn in the news, looked much stronger. Coppers, motors, chemicals and foods acquired group strength, and the utilities moved up vigorously.

Stocks Which Advanced.

U. S. Steel Common dropped 2 points on the first sale, extended its loss fractionally, but was prominent in the upturn and gained 1 7-8 net. American Can Case, Columbian Carbon, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Johns Manville, Rock Island and Woolworth were up 3 to 4 at the close, while General Electric, Westinghouse, Anaconda, National Power & Light, Consolidated Gas, National Biscuit, Sears Roebuck, Loew's and Du Pont advanced 2 or more. New York Central turned a loss of 3 5-8 into a 2 point gain. Atchison, down 4 3-4 n the early break, lost only a fraction on the day and Union Pacific and Pennsylvania closed firm. Standard Oils of California and New Jersey, whose merger possibilities are now being discussed in Wall Street, ran up more than 2 points each.

Neither the German situation nor the bank mergers and closings in Chicago appeared to have much direct affect on the market. Some bankers expressed the opinion privately that an opening of the German question to international discussion should prove constructive.

Day's News Good.

The Requa report, embracing a stabilization plan for the California Oil industry, was viewed as constructive and its prompt endorsement by California Standard appeared encourging. Resumptions of common dividends by Pan American Petroleum and rumors of a forthcoming increase in California crude prices, restoring quotations to the early March level, were other contributions to the day's news bearing on the Petroleum business.

The early upset in the rails called attention to the New York Central dividend meeting on Wednesday, some circles feel that another reduction, possibly to a $5 annual basis, may be made, but the stock's recovery indicated that shorts were none too sure of their ground. Central's earnings in the twelve months ended April 30 were equivalent to more than $5 a share, while Pennsylvania, whose dividend rate has also been questioned, earned slightly less than the present $4 yearly requirement in the same period.

Foreign exchanges were dull and firm.

New York, June 8. (AP)—The bond market wavered back and forth today.

Prices were generally lower, except in industrials, until the last hour, when a reversal developed causing closing prices to be irregular. These fluctuations were accomplished on a much smaller volume. Sales totaled $8,206,000 compared with $11,029,000 on Friday. The former is the smallest aggregate turnover for a full session in more than three weeks.

Strength in the industrial group was most apparent among a few leading issues. The average closing price for ten representative industrial loans jumped six tenths of a point, which was double the net gain in the average of thirty bonds including equal numbers of industrials, railroads and public utilities. Armour 5½s were active and several points higher at one time, although closing unchanged. The 4½ percent issue of that company were conspicuously strong on a few sales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 8—Heavy rainfall in parts of Alberta Province, Canada, and predictions of showers elsewhere in Canadian drought territory, led to lower prices today for cereals. An increase of 815,000 bushels shown by the United States wheat visible supply, contrasting with 2,363,000 decrease at this time last year, was also a bearish factor.

Wheat closed unsettled, 5-8-1¼ cents lower, corn unchanged to ½ down, oats 1-8-¼ off, and provisions unchanged to a set back of 7 cents.

Corn and oats went down with wheat as a result of favorable weather and crop news. December corn touched a fresh low price. Record for the season.

Nothwithstanding firmness of hog values, provisions worked downward with grain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 57¼-5-8; 59½-8-¾; Sept. 57 3-4-7-8; 59½-5-8; Dec. 61½; 63 3-8. Corn—July 55-56 1-8; 57 5-8; Sept. 52-52 1-8, 53¼; Dec. 45 7-8, 46 5-8.

LOVE IS A GAME FOR ONLY YOUTH

By NEA Service

London—Years ago, when young girls were carefully guarded, women of thirty to forty may have been more successful in love than the younger females. But that's not the case today, according to Helen Trevelyan, English writer. It's the other way around, according to her.

"I have heard a great deal of talk lately about women of thirty-five and forty being superior competitors in the game of love to the young women, and I always long to contradict," she says. "It is argued on their behalf that they have experience, which supposedly outweighs all other charms. I disagree.

"Say what you like, a girl's freshness, in love, at any rate, is that which counts most. It is that which older men cannot resist, and which takes them from the women of the world to the girl on the brink of life, to try and regain their lost delights and joys. That's why the 'teens and twenties will forever triumph over the thirties and forties."

TRENARY FORMS SEVERAL CLUBS

Boys and Girls Launch Various 4-H Summer Projects

Trenary, June 8. (Special)—Trenary boys and girls are enthusiastic about the 4-H clubs this summer. They have formed a canning club, food study club, garden club, poultry club, calf and potato club. Seventy boys and girls are enrolled in these clubs. The largest of these is the food study club with 28 members. This will be divided into at least two groups later as the number is too large to do effective work together. As there are 15 doing second and third year work it will probably be divided into one group of first year members only and the others forming the second group.

The organization of the girls clubs was completed Thursday at the first regular meeting.

The canning club elected the following officers.

President—Violet Gregg.
Vice-President—Saimi Wirtanen.
Secretary—Elsie Maki.
Treasurer—Ruth Van Hala.

There are twelve members in this group and they are doing first, second and third year canning.

The girls in the food study group elected officers as follows:

President—Betty Cunningham.
Vice-President—Mary Davis.
Secretary—Pauline Mills.
Treasurer—Joyce Christianson.

There are twelve girls in the garden club and they organized independently of the boys garden club. They elected the following officers:

President—Velma Mills.
Vice-President—Hazel Gregg.
Secretary and Treasurer—Gerta Hews.

Mrs. V. C. Vaughan, who has charge of the girls club work in Alger county, acts as local leader for the clubs at Trenary.

During the week clubs were organized at Ferguson, Eben and Grand Marais. Other communities will be visited for this purpose in the near future. Grand Marais has a large boys club of nineteen members wrich is just one more than in the boys club at Trenary.

V. C. Vaughan has received his appointment from the state board of agriculture as county club agent.

ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

The Trenary Home Economics Women's club held its achievement day Thursday, June 4th at the high school building. The exhibits were put up in the gymnasium and the ladies had a very attractive display of curtains, rugs, chairs, etc., which they have been working upon in their Home Furnishing meetings and at home. Some very nice work was displayed in slip covers for chairs and one lady had decorated all of the furniture in one bed room. (This was not all on display.)

A picnic dinner was served at noon in the Home Economics room. Some of the husbands were present at this. In the afternoon a short program was given among the numbers of which was a solo by Mrs. E. F. Brasier and a reading by Miss Nellie Moreland, both of which were highly appreciated. Miss Margaret Harris, Upper Peninsula Home Demonstration Agent, gave an interesting and instructive talk and at the close of the program awarded achievement certificates to the ladies who had finished the course.

Curb Stocks Rally In Late Trading And Close Higher

New York, June 8. (AP)—Under the leadership of oil shares which advanced as much as five points, curb stocks rallied in the late trading today. With the exception of specialties and industrials which were irregular, closing prces were generally above Saturday's final figures. The day's total turnover, amountng to 240,000 shares, was the smallest in a fortnight.

The advance of oil shares was the most vigorous since last Wednesday. It was attributed to the ressumption of dividends on the common by Pan-American Petroleum, a subsidiary of standard of Indiana, and reports from California indicating an upward revision of crude prices was imminent.

Vacuum, which early displayed firmness, advanced 3½ and closed at the top. Standard of Indiana, Union Oil Associates, Humble and Pacific Western appreciated 1 to 2. The extreme advance of the group. Cities Service held in a narrow range, and closed firm.

Qualifying Rounds in National Open are Held

ZELLER LEADS STATE GOLFERS

Eight Michigan Men Get Into Select Class for U. S. Meet

Birmingham, Mich., June 8 (AP)—Jimmy Zeller, Bald Mountain Golf Club's hard hitting pro, led the field of eight qualifiers in the Michigan national open qualifying trials here today.

Zeller, a 23 year old professional of only three years' experience, carded a 75 for the morning round and par equalling 72 in the afternoon to set the pace with a 147. His game has been developing rapidly in the last two years and his performance today was not totally unexpected.

Second place went to Clarence Gamber, of Forest Lake, America's longest hitter. Gamber equalled par with 72 in the morning but slipped to a 77 in the afternoon for a total of 149.

Third place was shared by three players with 152's. Nick Weber, of Grand Rapids, had a 75 in the morning and a 77 in the afternoon. Bob Grant, assistant pro at Clinton Valley, who arrived in this country from Scotland this spring, had an identical score while Ralph Guldhal, former Dallas, Texas, sensation, now of Franklin Hills, had 79 in the morning and a 73 in the afternoon.

Hold Play-Off

Davey Robertson, veteran Detroit pro who competed unattached, combined a morning round of 80 and an afternoon score of 73 for a 153.

Three players who carded 154's during the 36 holes played off an extra hole for the other two places allotted the Michigan area.

They were Bob Gray, of Colony Club, who had two 77's today; Ben Pautke, of Plum Hollow, who had a 79 and a 75, and Guy Paulsen, of Fort Wayne, Ind., who shot a 76 and a 78.

On the par four first hole where the play-off occurred, Gray three-putted to take a five while Paulsen and Pautke got down in fours. They were given the two places which entitles them to play in the national open at Inverness Club, Toledo, July 2, 3 and 4.

COX LEADS FIELD

Rye, N. Y., June 8 (AP)—A record-smashing 64 on the first 18 holes enabled Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn pro to lead the field by a wide margin in the national open golf qualifying round for the New York district played today at the Westchester Country Club.

Cox, whose sensational score in the first round broke the record for the south course, scored a 74 in the afternoon for a 36-hole total of 138 and a lead of seven strokes over his nearest rivals.

Eleven professionals and two amateurs, T. Philip Perkins and George Voigt, qualified in this district. Among those who failed to get in the qualifying limit were two former open champions, Cyril Walker, who held the title in 1924, and Willie MacFarlane, title-holder in 1925.

YOUTH WINS

Philadelphia, June 8 (AP)—Robert "Buzz" Campbell, 19, of Jenkintown, shot sensational golf today to lead six eastern Pennsylvania qualifiers for the open championships at Toledo, Ohio, July 2 to 4. He turned in rounds of 72 and 80 for a total of 152, topping his nearest opponents by one stroke.

PLAY AT OAKMONT

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 8 (AP)—Emil Loeffler, professional greenskeeper at the Oakmont Country Club, shot 148 today to lead a field of 93 in the qualifying round to decide eight entrants for the national open golf championship at Toledo, Ohio. Play was held at Oakmont.

WIN ROUND

Kansas City, June 8 (AP)—Paul Jackson and Jess Stuttle, of Kansas City, and Johnny Madden, Oakland City, Okla., today emerged from the district qualifying test here with the right to participate in the national open golf tournament at Toledo in July.

The scores: Jackson, 60-76—146; Madden, 70-76—146; Stuttle, 71-76—147.

AT RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., June 8 (AP)—Al Houghton, of Kenwood Country Club, Bethesda, Md., shot a 73-77—150 over the James River course of the Country Club of Virginia here today to lead a field of 31 seeking to qualify for three places in the national open.

FIRST ROUND TO BE FRIDAY

All Entries Must Be in At Press Office on Thursday P. M.

Plans for the third annual city tennis tournament were completed yesterday. The tourney will be under the direction of a group of local net fans who have taken active parts in tournaments for the last several years.

An entry fee of ten cents will be charged for each singles entrant and each member of doubles teams for the purchase of balls which will be used in matches after the first round.

All entries with entry fees must be in the Daily Press office not later than six o'clock p. m. Thursday, June 11th. Drawings will be made Thursday evening and play will begin Friday morning.

For the past two years the city tournament was sponsored by the Lake Shore Tennis Club, an organization no longer in existence.

Everybody Eligible.

The managers of the tourney have decided to use the United States Lawn Tennis Association's court rulings excepting the foot fault rule. Calling foot faults will necessitate having a judge present at every match so it was deemed advisable to eliminate this technicality as it will be impossible to have judges at all matches. Two out of three sets will be played in the preliminary matches and three out of five in the finals.

According to present indications the tournament will bring out the best competition in this section of the state. There are no eligibility rules; every tennis player in the peninsula is invited to enter.

At least thirty singles entrants and about fifteen doubles teams are expected to enter.

Expect Many Stars.

The meet will be an excellent vehicle to enable older net players to meet prep school stars in tournament play. Several entrants from Gladstone are expected and a large number from other sections of the state.

The entry blank appearing elsewhere in the paper may be used. Remember entries close six o'clock Thursday.

Among the local net luminaries who will probably be seen in action during the tourney are Bob McEwen, twice U. P. regional singles champ, Don Holmes, winner of last year's city tournament, Frank Bourke, Leo Coan, Burleson Fitzharris, Garry Belanger, Austin Stegath, Clyde Hirn and a score of others.

Clark Chamberlain Faces More Races For Michigan State

East Lansing, June 8 (AP)—The end of the college track season climaxed by the National Intercollegiate meet at Chicago Saturday brought no rest for Clark Chamberlain, Michigan State's distance ace.

Chamberlain, who won the two mile at Chicago in 9.23, began training today for a series of three meets that will see him in competition through July 4. He is an active candidate for the United States Olympic team in 1932.

Chamberlain will enter a three mile match race in Montreal June 20 against McCluskey, of Fordham, and Gust Moore, Brooklyn negro distance star. The following Saturday he will enter a meet sponsored by a Chicago newspaper.

The Spartan two-miler will be run in his favorite event July 4 at the A. A. U. meet at Lincoln, Neb.

The meet will determine the personnel of an American team to visit South Africa this summer. Should he fail to make the team, Chamberlain will put away his track togs until next fall.

Chamberlain finished his regular college season with the most impressive record of any distance star in the country. He was defeated only once,—at the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet in Philadelphia. Chamberlain ran the fastest mile and two mile races in the country during the past season.

The big leaguers were without a .400 clubber among the regulars today, the mighty Babe Ruth having fallen below that mark after being turned back four times yesterday by Wes Ferrell of the Indians. His .398, however, still was well ahead of the next best mark, Mickey Cochrane's .383. Al Simmons of the A's took over fourth place by hitting one out of three.

The sports schedule of peninsula high schools has ended. The invitational track and field meet at Iron Mountain last week-end was the closing athletic event of the year. In a week many of the athletes who made history during the past year will be graduated but many of their teammates plus a new crop of youngsters will take their places to carry on in perhaps a bigger and better way.

—o—

The Eskymos 1931 track team, like their other athletic squads, was composed to a great extent of inexperienced underclassmen. They failed to do anything sensational during the track season but they issued a warning that the 1932 Escanaba track squad will be one of the best, if not the best, in the peninsula. Only 7 points separated the Eskymos from the winning Iron Mountain team at the Invitational last week; yet they finished in fifth place.

—o—

The Iron Mountain meeting was the closest track meet ever held in the peninsula. Six schools were bunched in points at the close. In any of the other years, 26 points would not have placed better than third or fourth in the peninsula meet. This year it was good enough for first place. Two schools, Ironwood and Wakefield, both entering the meet for the first time, tied for second with 24 points, while Menominee and Escanaba, two track leaders, followed with 20 and 19 respectively.

—o—

Next year, the Eskymos will have practically the same squad as this year, including such stars who appear to be certain point winners again, as Baillargeon, Rose, Johnson, Anderson, Hebert, and others. It's a whole year before the track season rolls around again and almost anything can happen in that time, but the prospects were never better.

—o—

Carl Nordberg who will coach the Escanaba athletic teams next year was present at the invitational meet and appeared satisfied that things are "looking up" for 1932.

DETROIT TIGERS LOSE AGAIN, 7-3

Jimmy Foxx Gets Pair of Homers to Help Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 8 (AP)—A four run rally in the sixth inning enabled the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics to win their third straight of the series with Detroit today by 7 to 3. The victory was also the Athletics' sixth of the season over the Tigers in as many games.

Earl Whitehill, although beaten by Lefty Grove, who turned in his tenth victory of the season, held the Mackmen hitless for four innings. The first hit made off him was Jimmy Foxx's first of two home runs. Foxx's pair of circuit blows, the second with one on in the eighth, brought his season's total to 13 and was his third in two days.

Mark Koenig, who did not have a fielding chance at short during the game, made four of the losers' seven hits and had a perfect day at bat.

Ruffing Walloped In Ninth; Indians Win by 4-1 Score

New York, June 8, (AP)—For eight innings today, Charles Ruffing of the Yankees pitched a baseball masterpiece, holding the Cleveland Indians to one, lone single. Then he was struck by lightning.

Bang, bang, bang, bang—and the Indians had belted four hits, scored four runs and won themselves a ball game, 4 to 1. A single by Hodapp, triples by Porter and Myatt and Earl Averill's Eighth home run of the year did the work. Up to that time, Hodapp's single in the first inning had been the only hit off Ruffing.

Wes Ferrell, pitching his ninth victory of the year for the Indians, gave up only three hits.

ORCUTT SEEKS BRITISH CROWN

American Girl Escapes Disqualification at Portmarnock

Portmarnock, Ireland, June 8 (AP)—One American girl, Maureen Orcutt, and 63 natives of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, swished and waded their ways around soggy Portmarnock course today for places in the match play for the British Women's Golf championship starting tomorrow.

Leading the field was Miss Enid Wilson, English champion, whose round of 75 Saturday in the first qualifying round was considered remarkable under the adverse conditions. Today she needed 83 with the wind and rain even more severe for a total of 158, nine strokes better than Diana Fiskwick, defending titleholder, and Wanda Morgan, who tied for second with aggregates of 167. Miss Fishwick had rounds of 87 and 80 and Miss Morgan 80 and 87.

Fourth place went to Molly Gourlay with 83 and 85 and fifth to Miss Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., girl who took an 87 today to add to an 82 Saturday for 169 and fifth place.

Corrects Mistake

Miss Orcutt barely escaped disqualification when her score first was reported to officials as 86 instead of 87. At the end of her round, Miss Orcutt overheard a conversation in which it was mentioned that she had a second round of 86 whereas she herself had calculated it at 87. From inquiries she ascertained she had been credited with a five on one hole where she took six.

Greatly excited she searched for her marker but was unable to find the official for nearly an hour. In the meantime, however, she went to the committee tent where she declared her card had been marked wrongly, since she knew that if the erroneous score were accepted finally she would be liable to disqualification.

While discussion was taking place, Miss Orcutt's marker was found, the error was checked, one stroke was added to the American girl's score for the round and the disturbing incident ended happily for her.

Ranging behind Miss Orcutt's score through the 64 qualifying places were scores that took in as high as 100 for today's round and aggregates up to 191.

Many greens today were just puddles of water. One player, Miss D. Pimm, actually took off her shoes and stockings to wade in and retrieve her ball at the troublesome thirteenth hole where Miss Wilson took an eight. Miss Morgan and Miss Orcutt sixes.

BODY SHIPPED

Newberry, June 8 (Special)—The body of Millard C. Hootman, 39, was shipped to Lansing Sunday night for burial. This is the first body to be found of the three for which coast guards, state police, sheriff's deputies from Chippewa county and friends have been searching since an accident in Tahquamenon bay on May 17 caused the death of three Lansing men. John R. and Charles A. Ferguson were the others of the party who came to Emerson at the mouth of Tahquamenon river on a fishing trip. Search is being continued for their bodies. Hootman was found near Gull island and was identified by clothing and articles of jewelry, a ring and wrist watch. The body was discovered by Fred Bettinger of Lansing, a close friend of the drowned men.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN CLINIC

Dr. W. E. Blodgett, one of Michigan's foremost orthopedic surgeons together with Harry H. Howett, new secretary-treasurer of the Cripple Children's commission and three nurses will arrive in Newberry on Thursday, June 11 and prepare to conduct the clinic for crippled children at the community building. This is the first time that either of these physicians have been in Newberry. The work with the local little folks will be done in cooperation with local physicians and members of the Luce County Health association.

The visiting doctor will be the guest of the Luce County Medical society on Thursday and will be entertained during his stay here by Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Campbell at the Newberry State hospital.

Miss Shilson hopes that local parents will see to it that their children are brought to the clinic rooms early on Friday to allow for those living at a distance to be cared for during the afternoon. Not only Luce county is to receive this service, the examinations being free, but also any others living near enough to be able to drive in. If there are any who have no means of getting here a telephone message or a note to Miss Margaret Shilson will bring a car to their door. It is expected that a large number of persons will attend. The ages are from birth to twenty-one years. Also, those cases which have received treatment are expected to come in for a check up.

Miss Butzer of the commission in Lansing was in Newberry on Saturday to talk to Miss Shilson about arrangements for the clinic coming here from the Sault where on Monday the commission is working with Dr. Carey as clinician.

TWO FIRES

Over the week end two fires broke in this district, one about a half mile long east of Germfask. This started with a permit fire which was fanned by the strong wind on Sunday afternoon and got away from the land owner so that conservation men had to take it over. It crossed the highway during the late afternoon and will leave a bad scar on the second growth along this pretty road along the Fox river. It was reported held Monday morning, wardens Kubond and Mattson being in charge.

The other fire was along the Thunder lake road north of Cooks where a narrow strip was burned over but was reported under control late Sunday night. Warden Tebo was in charge, and Julius Thorson, game warden from Newberry, who happened in that locality stayed and worked until the danger was over.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

Miss Edith McPhee, recreational director for the Traverse City State hospital, who has been visiting in Newberry for a few days, returned to her work on Sunday.

A large group of teachers spent the week-end at the Niles cottage on Pretty Lake in the western part of Luce county.

Mrs. Art Fair has returned to her home on Truman avenue for the summer after a winter in Florida. She also visited her daughters in Detroit.

The Business and Professional Women's Club will hold their next meeting at Bear Creek lodge in Blaney on Tuesday evening.

State police were called to Curtis on Saturday by the report that two children by the name of Snyder, a girl aged 10 and a boy of six, were lost in the fire district of that locality. They found that the father of the children had arrived and had taken them away with him. The parents are not living together.

Dr. Kenneth R. Gibson, dental director for the Children's Fund of Michigan, arrived in Newberry on Saturday. He is visiting his various clinics throughout the state and is making his way to Marquette where he will attend the opening of the Children's Clinic in that city.

Mrs. Lester Millard, the former Margaret Hamilton, and baby have been visiting at the home of her brother Philip Hamilton. They returned to their home in Pontiac on Monday evening.

Mrs. George Swanson was called to Detroit on Saturday by the message that her brother, George McFall, had been seriously injured in a car accident in that city.

Martin B. Melican to Say First Mass at Manistique

St. Peter's Cathedral at Marquette was packed to the doors Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock when two young men were ordained to the holy priesthood by Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul J. Nussbaum, bishop of Marquette.

Martin B. Melican of Manistique, formerly agriculture and science teacher in the Escanaba high school, and Casimir J. Adasiewicz of Stambaugh, received the sacrament of Holy Orders from the hands of the bishop at one of the most impressive ceremonies performed in the cathedral in many years.

Father Adasiewicz will celebrate his first mass Sunday, June 14, in St. Mary's church at Iron River, the Polish parish of that city, and Father Melican will celebrate his first mass this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Francis De Sales church in Manistique.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques of this city and Rev. Fr. George LaForest of Flat Rock will motor to Manistique this morning to take part in the ceremonies. Father LaForest, who at one time was assistant at St. Francis De Sales church, will preach the sermon of the first mass. Father Melican was an altar boy while Father LaForest was in that parish.

MRS. ANNA BLITZ

Since then I've been a nervous wreck, was continually having headaches and backaches, and hardly knew what a good night's sleep meant. Sargon had a wonderful strengthening effect and the way it ended my troubles was nothing short of remarkable! My nerves are calm, I sleep fine and feel like I have a new lease on life. The Sargon Pills were just what I needed to overcome constipation and keep my bowels regulated properly."—Mrs. Anna Blitz, 5124 Canton Ave., Detroit.

"Take a squint at this Ball and Bottle Test.. you can SEE that New Iso-Vis Stands Up" of Indianapolis Speedway Tests, Certified by A. A. A.

RESULTS

1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.

2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.

3 Oil Added: only 63/100 of a quart—average for all cars—of Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 miles per hour.

Watch ISO-VIS for the TEST CARS

15 Iso-Vis test cars used at Indianapolis Speedway in intensive lubrication study conducted by A. A. A. are now on individual tours to auto dealers from Michigan to Montana. Watch for them.

The more body an oil has, the slower the ball drops. Note that used New Iso-Vis (Tube 2) has practically the same body as the fresh oil (Tube 1), while used "x" oil (Tube 3) has thinned out decidedly.

"IF YOU want the low down on a motor oil these little steel balls certainly give it to you. Maybe they'll hand you a jolt like they did me.

"I thought I knew something about motor oils, but this test changed my mind mighty quick. From now on I'm for New Iso-Vis—first, last and all the time."

You, too, will be for New Iso-Vis first, last and all the time when you see this test with oil from your own car. Put in a fill of New Iso-Vis. When it's time to drain go into any Standard Oil Service Station or dealer and use this oil in the Ball and Bottle Test. This proof will convince you!
